Tracing a Pedigree.

Some men are boasted of their ancestry, while others are entirely devoid of all pride of birth, and have no more respect for the geneological table of their forefathers than they have for Poor Richard's Almanac. The late John THE UNDERSIGNED have entered into Co-Partnership Randolph, of Roanoke, used to assert his belief that he his claim to that distinction.

Many years ago there lived in a near State a young gentleman who took it into his head that, like John Randolph, he was of Indian descent, though, unlike John, he did not know exactly the tribe to which his forefathers belonged. The idea was a perfect monomania with him, notwithstanding the efforts of his friends to convince him of the folly of his pretensions, to say noth TIO ANY WHO MAY BE AFFLICTED WITH THAT ing of the absurdity of them, even if they could be es tablished. The favorite notion, however, could not be cradicated from his mind, and he promised his friends

Having heard that a deputation of Indians were at Washington, on a visit to their great Father, the Presi dent, he promply repaired to that city, and arranging THE SUBSBRIBER would respectfully inform her with the gentlemen who had them in charge, his friends friends and the public that she has taken the building in the city were surprised to see an invitation to accomon Chestnut street, below Front, South side, known pany him on a visit to the Red Men, before whom he proposed to verify his favorite pretensions. The party met as requested, and found the Indians sitting on the floor, smoking their pipes, and manifesting but little ap- Delicious, small lamb! How interesting it is! Moving sufficiently close to the speaker, the Chief raised his hand, and carefully taking a lock of the young man's hair between his finger and thumb, gently rubbed it between them for a moment. All stood breathless .-Quietly withdrawing his hand, the Chief uttered the slight peculiar Indian grunt, and said "Nig." This altogether unexpected denonement ended the interview, and the discomfitted descendant of the Tommyhawks re- ed Mr. Moore with every possible attention. 752,542 $90,425 04 $90,425 04 $180,850 08 $1,800 00 A NEW BANK BILL .- The Union bank of this city has just issued a new five dollar bill, which displays admirable taste for neatness of design and execution of the engraving. Conspicuous on each of the upper corners are the denominational figures 5, in ovals, encircled with a vermilion border. The outer shading of the vermillion ring, on the right, is composed of a series of small figures 5, not discernible unless on close examination and the apparently light red ground or shading covering the entire lower portion of the bill will also be found, on close inspection, to be a repetition of the word "five," which, if in more general use by the many banks now in existence, would be the best possible check against the counterfeiter. The centre-piece represents two fe-male figures sitting on a cotton bale, with a steam factory and cotton screw in the back ground on either side. In the centre, on the lower side, is a full faced bust of Calhoun. Inside the vignette, on the left, is the word Charleston, and on the right, South Carolina. Tie name of the bank is most conspicuous across the face of the bill, and the denominational letters again appear in paper tint underneath, relieved by the red shading already referred to. This is the first issue. The bill bears the signature of W. B. Smith, President, and W. C. Clancy, Cashier. This is the first issue of the Union Bank with Mr. Smith's signature. Charleston Mercury.

FANNY FERN, in the New York Ledger, very fern-ily sketches the "innocent young lady:"-She is very petite, holds her head on one side, and peeps out of her eves squirrel fashion. She approaches you with a hop, skip and jump, which she immagines is immensely facinating, and giggles out a silly little laugh, which she fancies is musical. When company is in the parlor, she runs across the room, stopping in the middle of it, with her finger on her lip, (a favorite attitude), as if trying to remember something, then she tosses back her head smiles deprecatingly at herself, and scuttles back again to an ottoman, with the hand the bracelet is upon uppermost on her lap, and relapses into a pretty little reverie. feels like tying a blue ribbon round its neck and-strang-

AMERICAN HOTELS .- A correspondent is favoring the London Morning Chronicle with sketches of America and the Americans." The fifth number, devoted to Philadelphia, is thus introduced: The "Girard House" was named after a patriot ic citizen of Philadelphia, who, for his large benefactions to his native city, acquired the title of the American

American hotel life is very much the same thing throughout the Union, and our present abode only dif fers from the one we have quitted at New York by being upon a more limited scale, and instead of the waiters being composed entirely of very indefferent specimens of humanity from the Emerald Isle, we are now attended upon by a numerous retinue of "hereditary bondmen" from the western shores of Africa; these latter are most of them slaves, the property of Southern planters, who find they can make more of them by letting them out to hotel-keepers than by working them on their own exhausted plantations. It is said that Tom Moore, one night while stopping at an Inn in Scotland was continually troubled by the landlady with the request that he would write her epitaph.

Accordingly at night he gave impromptu as follows: "Good Susan Blake, in Royal state Arrived at last at Heaven's Gate" and stopped, promising to finish in the morning. The good lady was in transports at this inscription, and treatmorning he was about leaving, when the landlady re-said he, and added: · But Peter met her with a club, And knocked her back to Belzebub." It is said that Mr. Moore's horses were in motion just as he had finished the last line.

BAD ECONOMY .- An attempt at economy by one of County, Pa., is contradicted and laughed at as ridiculous.

We are informed by a gentleman from Newport, who was present at Mr. Black s death, that the account published in the Gazette of that place, is strictly true in every particular; that Mr. Black suffered the most excruciating agony, and that he made attempts to crow, flapping his arms and making a noise so similar to a rocker that those outside the house were persuaded to receive that those outside the house were persuaded to receive that those outside the house were persuaded to receive that those outside the house were persuaded to receive that those outside the house were persuaded to receive the count of its excessive weight. In reply to a question, he said it contained a million twenty franc pieces! The price of registering was at once augmented from 100f. to 625f., much to the capitalist's chagrin, though he got the valuable baggage.
